shows for festivals and events:

The Whole Shebang

Christopher Agostino's StoryFaces shows plus a team of our facepainters is a complete entertainment package for festivals and events. This exciting show entertains the line waiting to be painted, attracts large crowds, and leaves audiences amazed.

You've never seen anything like it.

TRANSFORMATIONS by Agostino Arts

The same wonderful artists you've seen at the Bronx Zoo and major events all around New York are available for any special event. Under the direction of Christopher Agostino, our company of professional face and body painters has painted tens of thousands of adults and children, setting a standard within the New York entertainment industry and transforming the idea of what a painted face can be.

At a Transformation event every face is different, every face is a creative work of art, painted so quickly, that this becomes a performance art as exciting to watch as to be painted.

Transformations Face Painting is an exciting entertainment, decorating your event with each face we paint.

Transformation Face Painting is the ultimate in "audience participation". It makes guests feel like they are performers. The faces we paint are memorable, people take photos that remind them of your event for years as they see them on the refrigerator. At all of our events, we'll transform anyone over the age of three—painting kids, teens and adults—everyone gets involved. See the video at: <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=1EuQoUHDvQM>

Christopher Agostino's StoryFaces Show is a truly unique fusion of storytelling and painted faces, designed to entertain a family audience. Folktales from around the world come to life on the faces of the audience in a surprising and delightful show. See the StoryFaces storytelling video at: <https://vimeo.com/47364130>

The Whole Shebang is our term for a complete entertainment package: a continuous stage show in combination with a team of face painters, to entertain our audience while we transform them. While some audience members will sit to watch the show, others will line up for our amazing facepainting. The stage performance includes storytelling and a cultural exploration of world traditions as fascinating for adult audiences as for children, with a variety of material to encourage participants to stay beyond the time it takes for them to be facepainted, or to come back and see more.

TRANSFORMATIONS 3.0

Bringing Themes to Life through Art on Faces

After years of constantly creating new face designs from person to person at every event, our professional company of artists has gotten very good at exploring new concepts, incorporating new imagery and adjusting our style to fit any theme. With TRANSFORMATIONS 3.0 we are actualizing our company's unique ability to fully realize an event theme on the faces of the participants. Supported by communication skills honed over our 30 year history as one of the top Arts-In-Education companies in New York, this artistic agility gives us the tool kit to present face painting as a content carrier at an event, fully integrating our faces into the message of your event.

Here are just a few examples:

Art on Faces

REAL Fine Art, painted on children and adults for events at the Parrish Art Museum, the Hudson River Museum, for the opening of a Picasso exhibit at the Nassau County Museum and for the International Festival of the Arts for The Kimmel Center, in which a team of our artists filled the streets of Philadelphia with paintings from the masters of early Modern Art in support of their theme of Paris 1910-1920.

Sport & Action Faces — Faces At Play

A kid becomes a basketball player flying across his face for NBA Draft Day at the Prudential Center, a girl becomes a dancing ballerina, Derek Jeeter makes the double play on a kid's face at an event for his Turn 2 foundation, two brothers play soccer on their faces at the Summit Live Well Sports & Health Festival.

Cartooning techniques let us put pictures of people on their own faces, transforming them into their heroes and bringing dreams to life.

World Science Festival

For 4 years we have taken scientific concepts from Astronomy to Biology and Physics and brought them to life for the World Science Festival Family Day — and in addition to painting these unusual designs we've shared our enthusiasm with the participants about the science behind the faces, and have also supported the event with performances of The Transformation Lecture exploring the Anthropology of masks and painted faces.
